A new theatre & arts centre for Carlisle

A report to Carlisle City Council by
Roger Lancaster Associates

October 2006

Pros

- The building offers significant volume and potential for either a theatre or arts centre development – perhaps the largest such site in central Carlisle.
- There is potentially good external access to the site for vehicular access and “get ins”
- It has a good position in the city centre close to rail and bus stations with parking nearby.

- Redevelopment of the site for cultural purposes could act as a catalyst for the Warwick Road area – distinct from neighbouring Botchergate.
- Considerable public support already exist in favour of a theatre/arts centre development on this site.

Cons

- The site is currently owned by a developer who is not interested in development of an arts facility but wants to knock it down and build apartments.
- Listing status has been applied for and if granted could lead to the developer reconsidering the intended use – but still seeking to maximise commercial gain.
- Initial indications are that listing is unlikely and therefore acquisition of the site could be both difficult and expensive.

Conclusion

"The Lonsdale could be the largest and easiest to convert site in the city centre. It could make an excellent theatre and arts centre with the capacity to incorporate all the suggested "ideal" elements. Issues related to ownership, acquisition and listing however create uncertainties as to the viability of this option although it is recommended that the option is further explored in the next stage."
