Subject: Extension

Hi Barbara, I live on Langdale avenue Carlisle there is a family that has bought next door and moved in they have lived there now for a few weeks haven't been introduced. Now he has started digging the garden up the neighbours say he is building an extension on his own I haven't seen any kind of information to say he has planning permission or asked. I work shifts but I'm off at the moment if they are doing all the work on their own it will take months to complete that means I probably won't get any sleep which isn't any good for mental health which at the moment with what's going on in the world isn't the best anyway. Another neighbour has had a stroke and trying to recover but this is getting to him, the other neighbours can't believe he has been able to go ahead with it. I'm not sure what to do if there is anything I can do I don't want to be a horrible neighbour at all but why didn't they buy a house that could be big enough for their family to begin with. Another neighbour gave me this mailing address.

Regards.
